The ANDROID powered Sony Ericsson XPERIA X10 Mini Pro might be available for buying at stores in your locality. Though the name has a suffix 'mini' but the phone is very powerful. The handset is packed with a 2.55-inch 240 x 320 capacitive touchscreen display, a 600MHz processor, a 5-megapixel auto-focus camera, a full slide-out QWERTY keyboard, a microSD card slot (up to 16GB), 3G, GPS, WiFi, Bluetooth and runs on Android 1.6 OS.

The phone is a power packed device with a slide out QWERTY keyboard which is as elegant as the phone itself. It was announced in February 2010 and it is available in stores now. While the price is not yet officially open to public but it is speculated that the Sony Ericsson XPERIA X10 mini pro price will be around $350-$400 (Rs. 16,000 in India)

The only difference between the X10 mini and mini pro is the that the pro version is slightly more expensive as it packs a QWERTY keyboard and it is also slightly thicker.
